

Photography Website

by: Stacie Fraser

For my final project I will be building a photography website. The landing page will have a background image that takes over the whole page that rotates to a different photo every few seconds, and a basic navigation bar. When some of the links are hovered over a drop down menu will appear so people can either click on the parent link or the different categories that drop down. This project will consist of many different pages. I have outlined what the site pages will look like in the following pages.
